JETS Greatest Needs

Fall 2026

1. Arabic Theological Publishing $150,000

JETS Publishing House has six completed manuscripts ready for publication, each written by Dr. Imad Shehadeh, President and Founder of JETS. $25,000 covers the full print publication of one title, from final edit to finished book. Printing all six titles costs $150,000. Each digital publication costs $10,000.

The six titles are:

1. Understanding the Present Time and Preparing for the Time to Come: Reigning with Christ, Volume Four, Commentary on the Book of Revelation
2. Understanding the Present Time and Preparing for the Time to Come: The Biblical and Theological Foundations, Volume Five, Commentary on the Book of Revelation
3. Pearls of the Beauty of the Trinity with Us and without Us: The Necessity of the Eternal Relationship in the Divine Essence, Doctrinal Study
4. Standing Firm in the Face of Evil, Suffering, Satan and Death, Six Volumes
5. The Anchor of the Soul in the Present Life and the Life to Come, Volume One, Commentary on the Book of Hebrews
6. The Anchor of the Soul in the Present Life and the Life to Come, Volume Two, Commentary on the Book of Hebrews

Original Arabic theological resources written by Arab scholars for Arab readers are scarce. Since 2016, JETS Publishing House has produced thirteen original titles. Each book goes to students, pastors, and churches across the Arab world who have very few resources in their own language. Gifts are made to the Education & Outreach Fund by December 31, 2026.

2. Student Housing $150,000

Capital Improvements for Sustainability

We are building new student housing on our Amman campus, and the architectural plans are complete. The housing will serve 19 students: nine men, six women, and two families without children. It includes two living rooms, two kitchens, and the needed bathrooms. A gift of $150,000 will complete the project.

3. Student Registration System $75,000

JETS has used the same student registration software for about 30 years. The system no longer meets our needs, and this has become clear since we launched distance learning. About 60% of our students now study online. A new system would modernize registration, simplify semester scheduling, improve how we manage each student's academic program, and give online students a better experience. The estimated cost for a system that meets our current and future needs is $75,000.

4. Electronic Publication App — $25,000

As JETS Publishing House grows, we are ready to build an app for our electronic publications. Readers anywhere in the world could access our books and articles at any time and receive notice of new releases and updates. For readers in countries where a printed book may never arrive, the app makes our publications available at no shipping cost. Professional developers have been consulted, and the estimated cost is $25,000.

5. Student Scholarships — $10,000 per student, per year

The full cost to fund one student through a year of training, including living support, is $10,000. Nearly every JETS student comes from a country with no financial infrastructure for theological education. Gifts at any level go directly toward a student's costs.

6. Non-Formal Pastoral Training — $5,000 per pastor, per year

Our non-formal programs bring theological training to pastors already serving in the field who cannot attend a residential program. The cost to support one pastor through a year of training is $5,000.
